Hi Joanne!

The website looks incredible- straight out of Vogue:). I really like the fun Typography elements that you added and interesting layout for the pictures. I think the header and the Nav Bar make a lot of sense and the website is very user friendly/ easy to navigate Home Section: I think having a standardized size for the magazine subtitles could help the page feel more cohesive. As of now, some subtitles span the length of one image and wrap below, and others span the length of two images.

Home section and Icons: I really like how images are displayed in a horizontal grid. Some of the images get cut off when you enlarge/ make the screen smaller. Maybe try playing with the min/ max with media in CSS to remedy this.

History/ Icon section: for the pages with lengthy text it could be nice to have a little bit more margins on the slide. This will help elongate the page and make the text easier to read.

I am really excited to see the final draft! Keep up the great work :)
